In these parts, we've yet to find sights that can rival the legendary Banuaue Rice Terraces. Amazingly this Eighth Wonder of the World has been functioning as rice paddy terraces for the Igorot tribes living in the rugged North. These steps were carved out of mountains in prehistoric times using sheer brawn. With their fierce culture, even now the Igorots tend to the terraces and perform ancient rituals linked to the cosmic force that inspired their farming ancestors to build this sustainable technology - a truly original feat of engineering. The climate is cold owing to high altitude, and walking into the mist is almost like hearing breathy whispers from beyond. People are always coming to trek its cool trails. Maybe to fathom this 2,000-year old enigma. Or perhaps to meditate on the ancient belief that in trekking these stairways to heaven, they live out their own legend.

IFUGAO & MOUNTAIN PROVINCE for NATURE LOVERS

Besides Banuaue rice terraces which have been honored by the Unesco World Heritage List are the Batad Rice Terraces, Mayoyao Rice Terraces, Hapao Rice Terraces and Kiangan Rice Terraces. The terraces are a lush green color in April and May. The gateway to the Mt. Province is Baguio City known for its pine trees and beautiful flowers. Beyond Banuaue, there is a special place called Sagada, known for its coffee, mist-covered surroundings and the mystical hanging coffins.

Most recommended Private island hopping tours in El Nido,

El Nido (Palawan) tours - Private boat tours

Still not convinced that Palawan is the number 1 island in the world? Then hop from island to island at El Nido, the exotic island group north-east of Puerto Princesa. There are several island hopping routes offered in El Nido, each of them offers a different island experience but are all equally magnificent and are surely memorable! You can lie on the sand bars, ride a kayak in the Secret lagoon, swim and snorkel in the Hidden beach and many more with the hospitable tour guides to assist you. Not only are these island beautiful from above but also from down under. The diverse marine ecosystem under the clear waters on El Nido are as wonderful as the sights on the islands.

Tour B

CAVES & COVES

In this whole day tour, be ready to explore the astonishing caves and coves in El Nido which has been blessed with magnificent islands and glorious beaches. Included in the tour is a visit to some of the most stunning coves in Bacuit Bay.

Pangulasian Island - Sun worshippers will have a grand time enjoying beach activities in this island which has a vast stretch of sandy beach. Located near the shoreline are beautiful coral reefs just begging to be explored.

Papaya Beach - offers a serene escape with its powdery white sand, clear turquoise waters, and lush surroundings. Perfect for swimming and snorkeling, it's a tranquil, picturesque haven away from crowds.

Vigan or Snake Island - During low tide, a natural S-shaped sandbar can be spotted off the shores. Hence it is also known as Snake Island which is situated near Pangulasian Island. When the sandspit is visible, its surrounding areas can be shallow swimming areas. And if you are up for a short trek, head to the hill in the nearby island and be rewarded by a spectacular seascape while your guides arrange a delicious meal.

Cadugnon Point and Cave - featuring the remains of a prehistoric settlement dating roughly 12,000 years ago, Archeologist have found human and animal remains as well as jewelry and pottery dating back to the Sung Dynasty (960-1279 CE) and evidence of cremation ceremonies that date back to 8,000 years ago. Anthropologists believe that the cave dwellers were from Borneo and travelled by foot across the ancient land bridge that used to connect Borneo and Palawan.

Pinasil Island and Cathedral Cave - This island's special treat is in its cave which is accessible via small boat and kayak. Much likened to a cathedral, this cave has a hole at its peak where enough sunlight can pass through and illuminates the nippy interior of the cave.

El Nido Tour A : Lagoons & Beaches

This tour offers the marvelous beaches and stunning lagoons within the area of Bacuit Bay. Travelers will truly witness a piece of heaven and the splendor of El Nido. Believed to have been caves millions of years ago before it crumbled down due to natural constant movement of the Earth, these crystal clear lagoons stand out for its remarkable limestone walls and diverse marine life. Big Lagoon and Small Lagoon are also frequently visited for its astonishing natural rock formations.

Secret Lagoon - Unravel the beauty of this lagoon surrounded by limestone karst cliffs. If you have seen the movie "The Beach", then you might see the resemblance in this island where the lagoon is situated.

Shimizu Island - This island highlights its limestone-covered cliffs where the popular bird's nest is gathered by the locals to prepare as soup. Aside from its delicious flavor, the locals consider this as medicinal. While your meal is being arranged, bask in the sun or snorkel as there are coral reefs located near the shore.

Big Lagoon - With its diverse marine life and sparkling waters, the big lagoon will surely fascinate you. Enjoy your cruise while on an outrigger boat.

Seven Commandos Beach - Named after the seven Japanese commandos who lived here after World War II, the island offers a long stretch of fine sandy beach.

Tour C

Did you know that some scenes from the recent action-packed film "Bourne Legacy" were taken from the beautiful islands of Matinloc and Dilumacad in El Nido?

Get ready to explore these islands and its pristine beaches. Aside from these natural wonders, be in awe with El Nido's abundant and thriving rainforests, enthralling lagoons and the colossal marble cliffs. Regarded as the country's Last Frontier, El Nido is a top-notch destination in Palawan. And even, globally recognized National Geographic Magazine can attest that this fascinating island is truly one of the best travel destinations in the world.

Dilumacad or Helicopter Island – The island boasts of a 300-meter stretch of enticing sandy beach and limestone cliffs which appear to be a helicopter from a certain distance. That is why the island is also referred to as Helicopter Island. Discover its underwater tunnel at the northern part of the island and an outlying reef on the southern end.

Hidden Beach - Is a serene, secluded paradise accessible only by water, known for its fine white sand, clear blue waters, and vibrant marine life. Nestled behind limestone cliffs, it offers a tranquil escape in a natural, less crowded setting.

Matinloc Island - Aptly named, for the word means "Beautiful" in the local dialect, Matinloc Island is a long thin islet with two gorgeous snorkeling areas: Kalmung Point and Kulasa beach. This amazing slim island also has four dive spots with the deepest at 124 feet deep where one can literally immerse oneself in the abundant marine life. But perhaps the most wonderful treasure that Matinloc Island has is the Secret Beach that can only be accessed by snorkeling or swimming into a narrow crevice in a rock wall. At noon, the sunlight streams in through this opening for a spectacular display against the limestone walls. So enchanting is Secret Beach that it is said to be the inspiration for Alex Garland's novel, The Beach, which was actually written while he was in El Nido, and later adapted onto the big screen with a young Leonardo Di Caprio in the lead.

Star Beach – Search for nemo and over a hundred of other fishes living in the coral reefs near this island. Definitely a great snorkeling site. While you are enjoying your underwater adventure, your guides will prepare your delectable lunch by the beach.

Matinloc Shrine – To venerate the Blessed Virgin Mary, a sacred monument was erected in the island in 1982 and was also called the Shrine of Our Lady of Matinloc and Shrine of the Blessed Virgin. (Additional)

ISLAND BEACHES

A definite must see and visit in El Nido is the Cadlao Island which is the largest island with 1,006 hectares and has the highest peak at 609 meters above sea level in El Nido. With its vast land area, it is not surprising that it maintains and preserves a good number of natural wonders such as an abundant rainforest and immaculate beaches which are ideal for snorkeling. An awesome sedimentary rock formation, a beach and a snorkeling area—all tucked in one area: the Cadlao Lagoon

Cadlao Island - Of all the islands in El Nido, Cadlao has the highest peak at 609 meters above sea level. It is the largest island, with a land area of 1,006 hectares. Cadlao Island is known for its white sand beaches, hidden lagoons, and its lush forest cover. Cadlao Island is one of the best places to snorkel. If you are lucky you may even see a sea turtle!

Pasandigan Beach - The beach in Pasandigan is an area for snorkeling, swimming, and picnic lunches during island-hopping trips.

Nat Nat Beach & Bucal Beach – These picturesque beaches of Bacuit Bay where plenty of coral reefs abound are ideal for snorkeling and diving. Catch the captivating view of the sunset after getting a nice tan in the afternoon. Ipil Beach will be visited as well of course.

Paradise Beach – Its west and southern areas are perfect diving sites. Ideal venue for picnics, this powdery white sand beach has wide shallow waters

A Glimpse of Boracay Island

First of all, it's Boracay - not Bora. In recent years it has been called "Bora" by both tourist and locals so much that people tend to forget its real name. There is a Bora-Bora Island but that is an entirely different island located off the coast of French Polynesia. Although also a tourist destination, THIS small island, approximately 315kms south of Manila, has garnered quite a few titles which include Best Island in the World in 2012 by Travel + Leisure magazine. It is likely that some tourists do get confused by the two islands with similar names so perhaps introductions are in order.

White Beach. A long stretch of white sandy beach is the island's central attraction. The Boracay of today is so much different from the Boracay this writer first encountered many many moons ago. The Boracay now is a far cry from the quiet little island I first visited. Of course, the pristine White Beach, the most popular Boracay beach, has always been a part of the island but now the whole stretch is filled with numerous commercial establishments from various luxury and budget accommodations to posh and trendy restaurants. Still, the developments in the island did not take away its beauty.

Willy's Rock. This lone islet along White Beach has a statue of Mother Mary. Devotees and non-devotees alike flock to this spot to watch the sunset, the ocean and of course, to take 'selfies' with the rock as the background!

Mount Luho. The highest peak in Boracay has a stunning view of the entire island. Tourists can tour Mount Luho by via ATV or All Terrain Vehicle , that can be rented at very reasonable rates.

RECOMMENDED ACTIVITIES

Various Water Activities. Swimming, snorkeling, Banana Boat riding, Kayaking, Helmet diving, windsurfing, kiteboarding, Kitesurfing or just plopping yourself on the white sands and basking in the glorious rays of the sun, there's simply no place better for all of this than Boracay. Bulabog Beach, which is the next most popular beach, is perfect for windsurfing and kiteboarding.

For Off-the-beach Activities. Don't miss the chance to take a ride in a car buggy or famously called ATV and drive in one of the highest points in the island. Or you might want to check out the Zorb where you will be strapped inside this gigantic ball and rolled off at a certain height. Definitely not for the faint hearted and those with dizziness problems but also definitely loads of fun!

Fire Dancers. During the day Boracay is a Sun Worshipper's Paradise but at night the partying gets literally fiery as fire dancers entertain with their jaw-dropping maneuvers and sexy routines. Some beach-front restaurants hold exclusive fire dance shows but you will definitely get a glimpse of these talented and amazing dancers performing their 'incendiary' moves along the beach.

Vibrant Nightlife. There are live bands, dance clubs and the more down beat 'acoustic' or 'unplugged' shows to choose from and whatever your partying fancy you can find it here. Or if a little night time serenity is what you're craving then you can just enjoy a nice cool drink while watching the sea lazily lapping its waves in the dark. Whether it's to dance the night away, Rock n' Roll all night, pig out or just chill out, nighttime in Boracay is simply divine.

As the locals and tourist who come here often say, Life is DEFINITELY better in Boracay!

You are probably in the midst of planning your wedding and looking to see which places would make for excellent honeymoon spots. Honeymoon in the Philippines can be a rewarding and exciting experience. Be sure to consider the different options before making final plans. One thing is certain, though, couples will have a lot of fun regardless of where they decide to go.

SO WHY HONEYMOON IN THE PHILIPPINES?

Honeymooning couples who are looking to soak up the sun will certainly have fun frolicking in the sandy beaches of El Nido.

Apart from swimming, couples can also snorkel, dive, and island hop while in El Nido. Dining is also quite a treat since Palawan has some of the best seafood in the country. Locally sourced fish is always the highlight of most meals served in El Nido restaurants.

Want rich and active nightlife, amazing hotels and great food? Take a flight to Boracay Island and party hard during the night and Enjoy water sports activities during the day.

For those who are natural explorers by heart, diving to see the shipwreck in Sangat and Lusong is a stop you have to make. A Japanese supply fleet sank in the waters of Coron in 1944, and all five ships are still underwater till now.

Well.. Honeymoon in the Philippines can have so many shapes and colors, just choose your Island and book your ticket..
